The Programme for International Student Assessment (PISA) is a worldwide study by the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD) in member and non-member nations intended to evaluate educational systems by measuring 15-year-old school pupils' scholastic performance on mathematics, science, and reading. It was first performed in 2000 and then repeated every three years.

1. Adversity. In 2013, the United States reached an educational milestone. For the first time, a majority of the country's public school students – 51 percent of them, to be precise – fell below the federal government's threshold for being "low income," meaning they were eligible for a free or subsidized school lunch.
